HEALTHY TIPS

Backpack safety

Heavy backpacks can cause neck, shoulder and back pain. Ensure that your child has a good backpack that has two straps and cushioned padding. A full backpack should not weigh more than 10% of your child's weight.

Avoid the 'clean plate' rule

Did you ever set a clean plate rule? If yes, then it is time to change the rules. Children often eat based on their hunger and their sensation of fullness. Forcing a child to clean their plate could lead to overeating and cause unnecessary stress. Also, parents who reward a clean plate with a dessert or other attractive food items may unknowingly cause the child to develop unhealthy food habits.
