HEALTHY TIPS

Seasonal Allergy – During allergy season have your child bathe after spending time outdoors to remove allergens from the skin and reduce symptoms. Keep your child with bad allergies indoors on days with high pollen counts. Close windows and turn on air conditioning to help remove allergens from indoor air. Use cool compresses to relieve itching or stinging eyes.

If your child has a history of seasonal allergic reactions to breathing in something they are allergic to, start medication before their symptoms develop. It is much easier to prevent allergy symptoms than to relieve them once they have appeared.

Your doctor may recommend allergy medications to prevent or manage symptoms.
